

Table of Contents

Introduction	9
CHAPTER I
The General Notion of the Master's Dissertation. Strategies of Conducting the Graduate Seminar	15
1. Why the Master's Thesis Should not Be Abolished?	15
2. The Skills to Be Manifested, the Criteria of Evaluation	19
3. The Preferred Strategy: Students' Maximum Freedom	27
4. Other Strategies	30
CHAPTER II
The First Semester	35
1. Studying Master's Theses Written Formerly in the Supervisor's Graduate Seminars	35
2. The Professor's Mode of Co-operation with Students	38
3. Formulating the Subjects of Master's Theses	44
4. Decision on the Primary Sources	62
5. Delimitation of the Scope of Issues for Study. Division into Chapters	70
6. Final Remarks	86
CHAPTER III
The Second Semester	93
1. Finalizing the Strategic Decisions	93
2. Contextual Lectures	95
3. The State of Research	99
4. Introduction and Conclusion	105
5. The Standard Elements of Introduction. Typical Errors Made in Introductions	111

6. Creation of Outline. Organization of Argument in Chapters	136
7. Final Remarks	148
CHAPTER IV
The Third and the Fourth Semesters	153
1. The Mode of the Graduate's Work	153
2. Style, Developing Argument	158
3. Plagiarism	169
4. Typical Errors Made in Chapters	172
5. Conclusion. Typical Errors Made in Conclusions	185
6. References, Footnotes/Endnotes, Bibliography, the Mechanics of Master's Dissertation	204
APPENDIX
Jerzy Strzetelski: Essential Instructions on How to Write MA Thesis in Literature	209